

Vocational Rehab <sup>[1]</sup>

Vocational rehabilitation (VR), a state-supported service, helps with employment services, such as resume writing, job seeking and similar services for people with disabilities. Some people with kidney disease would like to continue to work in their previous job, but due to its physical demands are no longer able to do so. Vocational rehabilitation offers the opportunity to test for other interests and provides job training or educational opportunities for positions that may be more suitable.
